CHINA FRONT.

WRANGLER'S ARMY IN DESPERATE STRAITS.

SITUATION VERY GRAVE.

PEREKOP LINES FORCED AFTER FIERCE ASSAULTS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, November 12.

Heavy fighting is proceeding on the Crimea front. The Bolsheviks with superior forces are pushing fierce assaults. General Wrangel's troops, says a Sabastopol message, have retired from an advanced position to the main lines of defence. It is understood that General Wrangel's fortifications on the Isthmus are strong and well provided with artillery.

DISORDERLY RETREAT.

CONSTANTINOPLE, November 12.

The situation of General Wrangel's army is now desperate. The Perekop lines have been forced.

CONSTANTINOPLE, November 13.

The Bolsheviks pierced General Wrangel's front on November 11. The situation is very grave as the problem of evacuation of the Crimea is difficult.

LONDON, November 13.

The latest Bolshevik communique claims that their cavalry is advancing in the Crimea on a wide front. The enemy is retreating in disorder and blowing up military stores and burning food. Red troops captured a large amount of military supplies, including three armoured trains.

80,000 REFUGEES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, November 12.

Eighty-thousand refugees in the Crimea are asking for transportation abroad, but transport is limited and it will probably be impossible to embark more than 20,000. The first refugees arrived at Constantinople this afternoon, but were not permitted to land owing to congestion of housing and scarcity of food. Their plight is very grave and it is hoped that France will come to their assistance and offer them asylum at Algiers.

GENERAL TOWNSEND ASKED TO TAKE COMMAND.

LONDON, November 13.

General Wrangel has telegraphed General Townsend, who is contesting the Wrangel district in a by-election as Independent candidate, asking him to take over the command of the army in the Crimea to fight the Bolsheviks. General Townsend says that it is for the electors to decide.

IRISH TROUBLES.

PARTY OF ENGLISH JOURNALISTS AMBUSHED.

ANOTHER AFFRAY REPORTED.

Seventy men ambushed a party of English journalists with a police escort who were motoring to Tralee. The attack was repulsed and seven of the assailants were captured. It is reported that two of the assailants were killed and several wounded. The journalists suffered no casualties.

HUNGER-STRIKERS RESUME FEEDING.

The prisoners in Cork jail, who have been hunger-striking since August 11, resumed feeding to-day with no untoward effects. All are expected to recover.

A Tralee telegram reports an affray in the neighbourhood in which two civilians were shot dead and two wounded while several auxiliary police were wounded.

CONTROL OF THE RAILWAYS.

LONDON, November 12.

The Gazette publishes a decree under the new Restoration of Order in Ireland Act empowering the military and naval authorities to take possession of the railways in Ireland with a view to the enforcing or prohibiting of any railway carrying all passengers or goods.

CRIMINAL USE OF MOTOR CARS.

LONDON, November 12.

It is officially announced that owing to the extensive criminal usage of motor cars in Ireland, from December 7, owners' permits will be valid only between six o'clock in the morning and eight o'clock in the evening, except in Dublin and Belfast, and there only within a radius of 20 miles of the owner's residence. Moreover, owners of cars illegally used are liable to severe penalties, including the confiscation of the car. Thus a car taken by force or intimidation does not exempt the owner from these penalties.

GERMAN REPARATIONS.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE AGREE ON PROCEDURE.

DEFINITE UNDERSTANDING.

PARIS, November 12.

The British and French Governments have definitely agreed to the following procedure on the subject of reparations from Germany:—(1) A meeting of Allied and German technical experts will be held at Brussels to report to their respective Governments and the Reparations Commission; (2) The Allied ministers will meet at Geneva by February, the Germans attending in a consultative capacity, to discuss the whole question, especially the total amount of the debt and examination of Germany's capacity for payment; (3) The Reparations Commission will proceed in accordance with the Treaty of Versailles to fix the total amount and methods of payment of the sum due by Germany; and (4) a meeting of the Supreme Council will be held to examine all further methods to be taken, including pledges and sanctions. The approval of other States interested in this agreement will be sought.

FIJI LABOUR PROBLEMS.

INTRODUCTION OF CHINESE LABOUR ADVOCATED.

LONDON, November 13.

A message received by the Times from Suva, Fiji, states that the elected members of the Legislature have introduced a motion favouring the introduction of Chinese labour for the purpose of meeting the grave shortage on plantations due to the departure of Indians. The unrest at Lautoka has subsided sensibly and a strike is improbable.

AMERICA'S PEOPLE.*TIDE OF IMMIGRATION.*ONE FOURTH BRITISH.Thirty-four million immigrants have entered the United States in the past century. In the same time the population of the country has increased 97,000,000. The estimated increase for the ten years ended this year (1920) is 14,000,000, while the total number of immigrants during this period was 6,100,000. The percentage ratio thus was only about 43 per cent, this being due to the falling off in immigration during the four years of the world war.FROM BRITAIN.Of the 34,000,000 immigrants entering the country in the last 100 years, nearly one-fourth of them, or 8,200,000, came from England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. Germany furnished the second largest number, 5,495,539, and Italy the third largest, 4,100,740. Austria-Hungary was next behind Italy, with 4,068,443, while Russia was fifth with 3,311,406.
The Scandinavian countries, Denmark, Norway and Sweden, have sent 2,134,414 of their citizens to the United States.The total of immigration from France in the 100 years has been 523,806, the largest number from that country, 30,126 coming in 1851.
Switzerland has sent 256,707 persons to the United States and the Netherlands, 214,508. British North America including Canada, has sent 834,450, and Mexico 217,256.Belgium and Rumania have sent the smallest number of any of the European countries, the total for the former being 76,587 and for the latter 76,222. It was not until 1894 that the nationals of these two countries as well as those of Portugal, Greece and Turkey, began coming across the Atlantic in any appreciable numbers.The total for Portugal is given by the Immigration Bureau as 159,702, for Greece 352,583 and for Turkey 311,404.Chinese immigrants have numbered 288,998, beginning in 1853 with 42, and virtually ending in 1883 with 8,031. The peak was in 1882, when 39,579 Chinese arrived. Chinese exclusion laws became effective about that time.Immigration from Japan was first taken note of in 1892 and reached its peak of 30,226 in the year 1907.
In 1919, 10,064 Japanese entered the United States, while the total for the twenty-seven years was 229,030.From countries not specified, including parts of Poland, Serbia and many others, have come a total of 2,100,000.EARLY COMERS.At the outset England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales furnished the bulk of the immigrants, the largesttotal from the British Isles, 272,740, coming over in 1851. By that time there also was a large flow of immigrants from Germany, the total in 1853 being 215,009, or the largest in any one year except 1912, when the high mark of 250,630 was reached.Immigration from the British Isles began to decrease in 1851, fluctuating between 32,000 and 160,000. In the twelve years preceding the world war the number of immigrants from those isles averaged about 80,000 annually.The tide from Germany began to turn in 1887, and since that time the number of immigrants arriving has steadily decreased, reaching the low mark of 35,734 in the year before the world war.At about the same time that immigration from the British Isles and Germany began to decrease that from Italy, Austria-Hungary and Russia advanced rapidly. It was not until 1891 that the number of immigrants from Italy passed the 50,000 mark. It averaged slightly better than that total for the succeeding ten years and then increased almost every year, attaining a record of 285,371 in 1907. The year before the world war it was 283,734.Immigration from Austria-Hungary exceeded 50,000 in 1901, went to 100,000 in 1902, reached the high mark of 338,452 in 1907, and was 278,152 the year before the war.
Russia did not pass the 50,000 mark until, 1899, and was not until 1902 that immigration from that country exceeded 100,000. The high mark, 291,040, was made in 1913.SCANDINAVIA WEAKENS.The peak of the movement from Scandinavian countries was reached in 1882 with 195,326. It gradually decreased thereafter until it was only 26,851, in 1895. The total year before the war was 29,391.In only six years of the 100 has the total of immigrants entering the country exceeded 1,000,000. Twenty thousand more than that number entered in 1905; in 1906 the total was 1,100,000 and in 1907 it reached the record of 1,285,389. The million mark was not reached again until 1910, the total for that year being 1,041,570.Two years again elapsed before the million mark was reached the total for 1913 being 1,197,892. In the year that the world war began 1,218,480 aliens passed into American ports, but in the first year of the war this total had decreased to 326,700.
In 1916 it was 298,826. In 1917, 295,403, in 1918, 110,618 and in 1919 it was 141,132.INDIGESTION AND BILIOUS-NESS.YOU should not eat food of any kind when bilious, but take a full dose of Chamberlain's Tablets and drink plenty of water. That will cleanse the stomach, move the bowels and soon restore the system to a healthy condition.

keepers.LONDON'S CHANGING FACE.*NEW BUILDINGS.OUTLINE BEING ALTERED BY THE ARCHITECTS.The old familiar outline of London is becoming broken and jagged. At a score of points there are disturbing gaps which affect one like the loss of a favourite chair from a room. A Londoner who had returned after a year's absence abroad, complained that "they had been drawing the teeth of the City in order to make it look old and ugly."With a pang he noted the disappearance of many a late Georgian and early Victorian building. In their places were uncomfortable voids across which drifted a cloud of brick-dust or a shred of old wall-paper.The disturbing hand also been at work in the West End, and Oxford circus it seemed was in the melting pot. What strange growth of latter-day architecture might spring up there? There was even a rumour of a "super-cinema" to take the place of Crosbie and Blackwell's factories in the Charing Cross-road!The returned Londoner was, however, forced to admit that there are some advantages. In the first place there is the discovery of lost beauty.
By the destruction of a heavy pile of masonry a City church, hidden for generations, has been revealed.Secondly, new buildings have quite altered the architectural effect of their localities. A case in point is the new branch of the Commercial Bank of London which has brought the strident note of New York into the solemn neighbourhood of the Monument.The new County Hall at Westminster has wholly altered the familiar aspect of that strip of "the foreshore of London." The wharves towards Blackfriars and the glittering Scottsman look strangely uncomfortable in such patrician company. It may be that Tower Hill will before long show as unfamiliar a face.A third feature of the rebuilding of London is the picturesque, and sometimes bizarre, effects of the great steel frames and network of scaffolding that speak of new "emporiums" and hotels. This is really a matter for the pencil of a Pennell or a Muirhead Bone. Structures such as those in Oxford Street and elsewhere in the West End have astonished strangers by the fascination of their gaunt lines.

HOME RULE BILL.

LONDON, November 11th.

In the House of Commons, on the motion for the third reading of the Home Rule Bill, Mr. Asquith urged concerted effort to find a basis of a real Irish settlement on the occasion of the Armistice by quonvining Irishmen that we are ready to meet them in a frank and generous spirit; and, consistently with every safeguard for strategic and Imperial interests and the protection of minorities in Ireland, to give them absolute self-government in regard to their own internal affairs.

Mr. Lloyd George said that nothing would please him more than a frank negotiation with Ireland but he complained the difficulties, especially the Irish suspicion. As long as the present temper of Irishmen prevailed, they would get no measure which could be accepted by the Irish.

Adverting to the proposed "Irish Assembly," Mr. Lloyd George challenged Mr. Adamson, who did not reply, to say if the Assembly were summoned and declared in favour of a republic he would agree to it.

Mr. Lloyd George emphasised that there could not be a constant temptation to Ireland and others wanting to imitate Britain. Nor could they permit anything that might weaken the strategic security of the kingdom by depriving them of the control of Irish harbours.

Mr. Asquith interjected "Fier, fier."
The Premier then retorted that Mr.
Asquith did not really favour Dominion Home Rule, because Australia, Canada and South Africa had complete control of their harbours.

Mr. MacVeagh's persistence was causing the Government to publish the document as regards the German plot with Sinn Fein in 1918. It would reveal what a menace to Britain the creeks in Ireland could be and how Sinn Fein plotted to use them, how they did use them and how they would have used more, if the country had not a complete grip upon them, which it meant to retain (loud cheers). They would never consent to anything enabling Ireland to organise its own army and navy. Therefore, it was well to emphasise this clearly. Ireland could easily raise a conscript army of six to seven hundred thousand under Dominion Home Rule. He warned Labour members that that would compel conscription in Britain. Furthermore, Ulster, under no circumstances, was to be coerced into the acceptance of any Parliament against its will.
He was of the opinion that a separate Ulster Parliament was the way most likely to lead to unity in Ireland. The Premier emphasised that the reasons for retaining Imperial control of the Customs and Economy were because of the threats of a hostile republic. Fiscal autonomy could only be discussed with a people who frankly gave up ideas of independence. Though there were many unhelpful features in Ireland to-day, the whole situation did not make them despair. He hoped that the past series of misunderstandings were coming to an end.
In conclusion, Mr. Lloyd George appealed to Irishmen to contemplate history showing that some of the Empire's greatest soldiers came from Ireland.

The Premier asked that the Irish in a moment of anger, even if they thought it legitimate anger, should not and away the joint initiative which was theirs as much as ours, but join in the Empire they helped to build and adorn.

Sir Edward Carson declared that he in Ulster would do his best to perform their obligations under the bill.

The influence of Armistice Day clearly coloured all the speech which reached in the most conciliatory terms.
The speakers were markedly anxious to avoid unnecessary controversy.

Mr. Adamson's motion for the rejection of the bill was defeated by 183 votes to 22, and the bill passed its third reading.

LONDON, November 11th.

The Government's determination to allow Sinn Fein hunger-strikers to die has recently convinced Sinn Fein leaders of the futility of making more martyrs. Consequently, Mr. Arthur Griffith, "the acting President of the Irish Republic" has sent a letter to the Lord Mayor of Cork expressing the view that the eight hunger-strikers in Cork, who are seriously ill, should be kept for over ninety days, have proved that they are prepared to die for Ireland and should now prove that they are prepared again to live for her.

ILLINOIS MYSTERY.

OTTAWA (ILLINOIS), November 11th.

A mystery enshrouded the whereabouts of a cashier Francis Carey, who is reported to have been entombed on the evening of November 10th in a safe time-locked for the morning of November 12th by an alleged bandit, who, it is stated, quitted the National Bank with $50,000 which he dropped in flight. Officials after using acetylene torches and dynamite eventually opened the safe this morning and were bewildered to discover instead of the supposed hero

The China Mail.

"TRUTH, JUSTICE, PUBLIC SERVICE" HONGKONG, MONDAY, NOV. 15, 1920.

MR. HICKIE AGAIN.

Need we give an assurance that we do not want to land our columns with the name of Hickie? The necessity for mentioning it again so soon has been thrust upon us. "The China Mail" is the people's safety valve, and is obliged to ventilate grievances, as well as the more serious attacks upon our local community. If Mr. Hickie would rather not appear in the fierce light of China Mail publicity it can be arranged. All he has to do is to try and behave like a Hickie. Then we will not hear about him, and need not think about him. Mr.
S. D. Hickie manages, in the absence of Mrs. Hickie, a private tutor and flats at Queen's Gardens called Montpelier. The last time we had to refer to his relations with his tenants and boarders was in connection with "increased charges." He sent us, you may remember, a lawyer's letter asking for an apology. Instead of an apology we offered further comments. There, so far as we were concerned, the matter finished.
We heard that Mr. Hickie told his friends that he regarded it as a good free advertisement; and we didn't begrudge it. We now have to give him another.

Let us tell the simple story simply.
A lady has occupied a room there for seven years. Formerly she occupied it jointly with her mother.
When her mother died, she kept it on. She has paid more than one increase of charge without protest.
On September 16th—positively within a week of our last comment on him—he wrote to this lady a note couched in very friendly terms, from which we quote the following passage:

"I was wondering if you had a friend whom you would care to have live with you. My wife mentioned before she went away. It would be a company for you and make things a little cheaper."

No one could possibly find fault with a friendly suggestion like that, even though it might not seem congenial; and anyway, at the end of the note Mr. Hickie disarmed criticism by saying "I say things sometimes without thinking." So his suggestion was discreetly ignored, and it seemed as if no more was to be heard of it.

But on October 27—11 days later—he evidently recalled his friendly suggestion as a business proposal, for he wrote as follows:

"Have you got a friend yet to join you in your room as mentioned in my letter of two months ago?
An advt. would be the best thing if not."

This naturally compelled a reply from the astonished lady, who said she had no friend, and did not wish to advertise for a stranger to share the intimacy of her room. That brought the claws into sight, out of their velvet sheaths, and Mr.
Hickie wrote on Oct. 30:

"Then in reply to yours of 28th inst., as you don't care to study our interests [these had not been so much as mentioned yet, the reader will notice] I don't see that we should study you any longer and must ask you to vacate your room at the end of next month. I have already let it to another family. I am sorry I misunderstood your attitude (sic) and I don't think you have treated us quite fairly."

Two days later—Nov. 1—he seems to have felt that that was just a little bit too abrupt to address to a patron of such long standing, and he wrote:

"I have put off letting your room for certain until you tell me you are fixed up elsewhere as it may not be easy for you to find a place to suit you at a month's notice and I do not wish to put you to any inconvenience."

That gentlemanly after-thought does him credit, and goes a long way towards atoning for the previous note, which made us desire to say unpleasant things about him.

That talk of her interests and his interests is very amusing when you know the idea in his mind. The lady, alone, pays $130 for room and board. The charge for two would be $250, so that the lady would exchange her privacy for a saving of five dollars per month. We are not accusing Mr. Hickie of anything unlawful, but we would urge him to consider the decency of charging less persistently of "our interests," and still less of pursuing them by a camouflaged concern for other people's. Some consideration for people who have patronized this establishment for so long will pay him better than immediate monetary gains.

FLAT RANSACKED.

WOMAN BOUND AND GAGGED.

In answer to her inquiry when awakened about 10.15 p.m. yesterday by a knock at her door, a Chinese married woman living at No. 7 Laudale Street, Wanchai, was informed that scavengers were without. When she opened the door, four men rushed in. While one caught her by the throat and threatened to strangle her if she made a noise, the others gagged her and then tied her hands and feet. The robbers, one of whom was armed with a revolver and another with a dagger, ransacked the flat, stealing in all property valued at $60.
They then made good their escape.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Mr. O.A. Smith, who has been to Australia on leave, returned to the Colony by the s.s. "Hwah Ping." He resumes the management of Messrs.
Whiteaway, Laidlaw and Co.

Among the passengers arriving here on Saturday on the "Empress of Asia" were Sir Evan Davies Jones, M.L.C., E. D. L., and Lady Jones.
Sir Evan Jones is a member of the Institution of Civil Engineers and a partner in the firm of Topham, Jones and Ralston, Ltd., Public Works Contractors. In recent years he has been Petrol Controller, Chairman of the Road Transport Board, and Commissioner for Dues.

Two professors and twenty-three students of the Formosan Government Commercial College arrived in Hongkong on Saturday on the "Soshu Maru" in the course of a tour to investigate the conditions of commerce in Hongkong and South China. They left for Canton Saturday evening, and are due back here to-day. To-morrow afternoon they will be entertained at the Japanese Club. They will leave for Formosa on Thursday.

U.S. MERCHANT MARINE.

"FACING RUIN."

AN ORGY OF GRAFT.

The great American merchant marine built up during the war, at an expense to the Government of $200,000,000, is apparently facing ruin to-day, according to the investigations conducted by the New York Globe, because of Washington's anxiety to scramble out of the shipping business as quickly as possible, and the unrestricted efforts of private interests to prey upon the Government ships. According to the Globe's special writer, a tragic fate awaits the American merchant marine unless steps are taken to compel those who have looted, and who are still looting the United States Shipping Board to return their ill-gotten gain.

But he despairs of any action because the Democratic Administration shuns it, owing to the prominent people involved, and the Republicans know that many prominent Republicans are amongst the chief beneficiaries of the orgy of graft.

Shipbuilders who have been charged with fraudulently acquiring many millions of the taxpayers' money in connection with war-time ship constructions have never been brought to trial. Shipbrokers are selling hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of Government supplies to private yards at 85 per cent. discount, which use the same supplies for refitting Government vessels, and charge for it at the rate of a hundred cents on the dollar. The disintegration of the American merchant marine has reached the point to-day, it is claimed, where the private operators of allocated Government ships find it more profitable to tie them up at their docks than to send them to sea. On the few profitable trade routes the remaining private operators naturally send out their own vessels, and when even there is a voyage involving extra risk or poor returns the Government vessel is used.

Net play was conspicuous only by its absence, and Port was the only factor in the game where ground-strokes were the determining factor. Lo's service is not of the "clean-cut" sort, and Port, who is apparently accustomed to rely on service to a greater extent than this department of his game warranted on Saturday, was usually failing to get his first delivery in the service court, and send over a second ball which presented no difficulty whatever. Very seldom did he put in a hard second ball; on the infrequent occasions when he did so the result was nearly always a "double fault."

INTERPORT TENNIS.

SECOND MATCH.

The second match of the Interport contest between Hongkong and Shanghai was played at the Chinese Recreation Club on Saturday afternoon. Owing to the late arrival of the "Novara," the single between Ng Sze Kwong and the Japanese, Tanaka, was not played, the only event being the scheduled single M. W. Lo v. W.
S. A. Pott. There had been much speculation about this particular match in advance, and most held that Lo would have to produce his very best form in order to give the Shanghai man a game. Lo's display on the previous Wednesday had not been brilliant, and the question before the armchair players was whether the form he had shown then could be sufficiently explained by the change of partners to give Hongkong the hope of seeing their reputation upheld.

As it turned out, Lo succeeded better than his most sanguine admirers had dared to hope. He combined an almost uncanny accuracy with a modicum of hard driving, and with nearly everything coming off for him in the way it does at times, he proved the winner in three straight sets.

The match score read—6-3, 6-3, 6-3.
DETAILED REPORT OF PLAY.

Pott won the toss, and elected to take the road, i.e., with Lo's service both players began easily, and a certain amount of experimenting was seen before either began to hit out. In this set Lo's tactics were better than in the subsequent ones; his game was obviously to play on the Northern player's backhand and then whip one across to his forehead when Pott had been forced sufficiently out of position. This he managed to do with great consistency, and Pott was in consequence trying to put too much in his forehead shots in the hope of keeping Lo's placing under control by the very pace and severity of his driving. Lo quickly found his length, and took the first game. After the change of ends Pott won his service while Lo seemed to be wondering if he could continue to play the placing game throughout the match. He soon made up his mind that he could, for he kept Pott continually on the run and in a state of suspense as to the moment when Lo would try the forehead corner. The next two games went in this manner to Hongkong, making the score 3-1. Then Lo began to make double faults in profusion, and the supporters of Hongkong feared that he would throw away his lead.

The game extended to many deuces, and finally went to Shanghai, 3-2.

Things took a turn for the better for Hongkong after this. Lo began to hit out while still keeping up his attack on Pott's backhand, and going for everything to convert it to a winner, he took the next two games and got to vantage-server in the next. But Pott, playing with care, managed to save the game after Lo had thus been within a point of the set, and converted the score to 5-3.

In the next game Lo was hitting hard at most balls and Pott was careful.
Exciting rallies ended in Lo gaining the game and set, the run of luck just favouring him and spoiling Pott's game.

Whether it can be said that luck was responsible for putting Pott off his game is a matter for dispute.
The opinion as I heard it seemed to incline to the view that however many of Pott's shots were just out, yet it would have needed more than this factor to save the set for Shanghai.

With the score for the first set reading 6-3, Lo was obviously feeling confidence in himself, and Hongkong, though admitting the possibility of his falling off from his present high standard, still believed that Pott would not manage to keep him down for three sets more.

SECOND SET.

Both players now seemed to settle down to a type of game where

and Pott seemed encouraged. This led him to come up for smashes in a much more attacking way, but Lo had a little of the Ng Sze Kwong touch of saving almost impossible shots. Further, he was watching Pott's play in the matter of placing his smashes, and showed commendable anticipation in being in the right place to return them. In this way he got back several winners, or balls that had seemed to be winners, and Pott was naturally not unaffected by this. A hard smash is apt to leave the maker of it unprepared for the return, and Pott was no exception to the rule. Thus Lo made it 3-1, and both players gave a display of sustained brilliance which finally resulted in the game going to the Northern. The score was then 3-2. This set was much more of a give-and-take affair than either of the others, and the result of it much more doubtful until the end.

Lo made some more of his magnificent saves in the next game, and Pott, no doubt, began to be somewhat disheartened by the seeming impossibility of putting it past him.
At any rate Hongkong took the game, making the score 4-2. The Northerner, as was to be expected, let out at the ball in the next game, and his tremendous drives were too much for Lo. Luck smiled a little more kindly on the Shanghai player, and he took it to 4-3. But Lo, showing a beautiful consistency, and his defence, still giving Pott more than he could do to cope with it, captured the succeeding game, with the inevitable 5-3 for Hongkong. To save the set the Northern player needed but two games, and he managed to get within a point of the next. But Lo would have no denial, and saving the game from this point he took it himself, thus winning the second set 6-3, first set to Hongkong.

Pott was showing signs of even greater discomfort from the heat than he did in the doubles match, while Lo was obviously unaffected by anything like the same extent.
The factor of fitness bore a greater weight in the succeeding set than in the two before, and Pott seemed to feel the inadequacy of his backhand, on which Lo had been playing with great effect, though perhaps less than in the first set.

THIRD SET.

After a short rest of hardly a minute's duration the players took up their positions for the final set, as it was to prove. This was characterised by tennis of a much freer description than the former two, at any rate in its earlier stages. The atmosphere was tense with interest, and despite Lo's known tendency to go to pieces on no particular provocation the hopes of Hongkong rose as he began with no signs of a change in his excellent play. The first game went to him, as in each of the other sets, and it was certain that if he were to break up at all he would have to be very quick about it in order to give Pott a chance. But even when the succeeding game was a series of hard smashes by the Shanghai player Lo was not discomfited, and yielded nothing which was not fully earned by Pott's superior play.
Such consistency, I am assured by those who should be in a position to know, he has seldom approached before, and never kept up throughout the whole of a big match.

After this equalisation the spectators expected the same sort of give-and-take tennis as had been exhibited in the previous sets, but Lo struck a patch of rather more forceful tennis than he had shown heretofore, and took the score to 5-1, a game short of the match, before he was stopped. The third game was more or less a repetition of the first, with Lo hitting hard and Pott, favoured neither by the increasing vulnerability of his backhand when Lo played upon it, quite unable to stop the rot. Especially in the matter of luck must we extend our sympathy to the visitor; it seemed that nothing could go right for him, as ball after ball that might have fallen inside the lines went just beyond them. Of course there is this to be said; such accuracy as Lo was displaying betokens hand and eye in perfect training, and the mind as alert as the body is ready to respond to the impulses of the brain. Pott, by the very profuseness of his perspiration made one wonder if, with better training, his luck might not have been better in the same ratio. At any rate, more than one player remarked to me upon the difference between the sound of the ball on his racquet and on that of Lo. When the Shanghai player hit a ball there was a much duller sound than with the cleanly hit shots of the local man, and the difference was more marked than would have been expected if it could be explained by the difference of tension in the strings of their racquets. And at times Pott would hit shot after shot on the wood. This was the case in particular with his service-shots; often the ball went "wild," and always there was a great disproportion between the energy he seemed to put into the shot and the speed of the resultant ball. All this goes to prove that he was not at his best.

The fourth game saw the Northerner netting his volleys in a lamentable way; he essayed to come up to the net in the hope of again smashing with effect, sufficient to put Lo off his game, but his lack of speed up the court combined with the frequency with which he put an apparently easy volley into the net to render this attempt ineffective.

Lo took the game, keeping his head with great success at this most crucial point in the match, and encouraged by Pott's failure to attack took the initiative himself to such good purpose that he managed to put the next game to the account of the Colony without the concession of a single point to his opponent: a love game.

Following this Pott made a great effort, and succeeded in getting to 40-15, but Lo still showed no signs of breaking up, retrieved the position, and won the game. The score was now at 5-1, and but one game was needed to finish the match in favour of Hongkong. The atmosphere grew if possible yet more tense; and Lo himself seemed to feel how much rested on him, for though he reached within one point of the match, he suddenly lost his game altogether, and began to put the ball anywhere but in the court. Pott had shown how much importance he attached to the game by stopping play while the ball-boys, who had been sauntering in the easy manner of their kind down the side-line, retired to a place where they would be less likely to catch his eye as he stood to receive Lo's service with the score needing one point to finish the match—vantage to server. This incident seemed to put Lo off somewhat, and Pott secured that point and eventually the game, making it 5-2.

The spectators now began to utter cries of approval to the two players even in the middle of a point, and the umpire looked at the culprits in an effort to restrain them from this exhibition of feeling. Lo, after his failure to secure the set and match when both were within his grasp, had gone utterly to pieces, and Pott had but to keep him there to retrieve the position. Excitement ran high; everyone knew that Lo was perfectly capable of never recovering his game at all, and feared that if the Shanghai player could but play his own game with sufficient steadiness to avoid the loss of a game until the set were safe, he might yet convert his defeat into victory. This, indeed, he did do to the best of his ability, taking the next game with ease, Lo being unable to do more than hit at the ball in an ineffective fashion.

But, with the score at 5-3 Lo's fit of off-colour passed, and once more he began to hit the ball in the way to win. Pott made all the attempt he could to stave off defeat, but Lo was winning all the time, and the game, set and match went to Hongkong, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

As I remarked in my notes on the doubles match on Wednesday last, the backhand strokes of Pott are lacking in certainty and deadness.
From what I saw of the play of Tanaka in a knock-out which he had with his double partner, Cana-varro, after the Pott-Lo match had finished, he is of much the same sort.
But he, at any rate, had felt the voyage, and confessed that he was not fit to play his scheduled match with Ng Sze Kwong that afternoon.
Lo the single which was seen there was certainly evident the situation that arises when a player who is skilled in placing, who possesses a backhand himself of no mean order, though more defensive than one could wish, and who has attained perfect length consistently plays on to the backhand of a player who has a less command of that stroke, and varies this treatment with reasonably frequent spells of really hard hitting.

Pott seemed to feel all the time that he had to look out for Lo's beautifully placed shots only a few inches both from sideline and baseline, and this fear must have told on him. He played in a most sporting manner; whether winning or losing he tried for everything and bore up against the net-balls, and line-balls of his opponent as cheerfully as he endured the trying way in which his own shots would often just hit the tape below the cord or fall an inch or so outside the area of the court.
Nevertheless it must be confessed that the better man won, and that even luck such as Pott experienced could not alter the impression of three straight sets. The Shanghai man's leg appeared to give him more trouble than it did on the occasion of the doubles match; Lo had him so frequently on the run that it must have told on him, and this, combined with his apparently inferior condition made it all the more difficult for him to counter Lo's tactics. So seldom was he given the opportunity for his best stroke that it seemed not half as deadly as on Wednesday, but this was, I think, an erroneous impression; the credit is due to Lo for keeping him so consistently out of set, and it is to be hoped that Ng Sze Kwong, whose style of play such methods will fit much more easily, will also keep both the hard hitters of Shanghai from having the chance to exhibit a stroke which they have brought to a higher stage of efficiency than any other player we have in the Colony.

Hongkong ought to win all the remaining singles, if Lo can reproduce in his match with Tanaka the superb form which he showed against Pott. In any case Ng Sze Kwong will have no excuse if he fails in his matches, in view of the form the Northerners at present show.
The doubles matches are a matter of more doubt; I have not seen Wei Wing Lok partnering our Singles Champion for some time, and if, as rumour states, the combination has improved out of recognition, and Wei has found something nearer his Wimbledon form, we ought to take the match against Pott and Ollerdes-sen, at all events. As to the result of the other doubles, it will be easier to make some sort of forecast not wholly worthless when an opportunity has been afforded of seeing the Tanaka-Canavarró pair in actual play.

A PLAYER.

TODAY'S MATCHES.

Messrs. Canavarró and Tanaka, the other two Shanghai Interport tennis players having arrived by the "Novara" on Saturday, the following matches will be played on the H.K.C.C. Courts this afternoon, commencing at 3.30 p.m., by which time it is expected that the cricket match Hongkong v. the Visitors will have been concluded.

West Court.—Pott and Ollerdesen (Shanghai) v. Ng Sze Kwong and W.
Lock Wei (Hongkong).

East Court.—Canavarró and Tanaka (Shanghai) v. M. W. Lo and Yvanovich (Hongkong).

Both Canavarró and Tanaka were seen practising on the C.R.C. Courts on Saturday, and created good impressions. They appear both to be in fine form and are forceful players who will have to be handled very carefully by the local players, who are opposing them.

TO-MORROW'S MATCHES.

To-morrow's single matches should prove of great interest, and are sure to draw a large crowd, as Ng Sze Kwong, the Hongkong singles champion, is meeting W. S. A. Pott, Shanghai's champion, and M. W. Lo, the Colony's runner-up in the singles championship, will play J. Tanaka, Shanghai's runner-up and ex-champion.

On Wednesday Ng Sze Kwong and W. Lock Wei (Hongkong) will play Tanaka and Canavarró (Shanghai) in a doubles match, and on Thursday, Ng Sze Kwong is scheduled to meet Tanaka.

HONGKONG v. REST.

Shanghai finished off the match on Saturday without much trouble disposing of Singapore in the second innings for 68, and winning by an innings and 139 runs. The result therefore of the Interport contest is that each side has won one match and lost one.

The Shanghai bowling average which did not appear in our Saturday edition was as follows—

	O.	M.	R.	W.
Leach	11	2	31	5
Wainwright	3	1	6	0
Allison	7.3	1	25	4

Wainwright bowled 1 no ball. Runs at the fall of the wickets—

GOOD BATTING BY LEACH.

As there were no Champions and no Rest it was arranged that a match, Hongkong v. the Rest, should be played and continued on Monday. A large crowd of spectators filled all the available seats and his Excellency the Governor, Lady Stubbs and party were present during the afternoon. The Rest of the Wills, Regiment also played selections during the afternoon. The following side captained by A. A. Claxton represented the visitors H. W. Allison, W. G. Clifford, D. W. Leach, H. H. Morris, R. Grimshaw, A. E. Holmes-Brown, W. W. Martin, H. L. Mitchell, E. J. Riches and Stafford, a Straits player who arrived in the Colony on Saturday morning.

In the Hongkong side the two reserves A. E. Wood and E. B. Reed came into the side in place of W. C. D. Turner and Farthing. Messrs. A. W. Bliss and A. R. Sutherland were the umpires and Messrs. W. D. Jupp and V. J. Coleman the scorers.

Hancock again lost the toss and Claxton decided to bat. A new wicket was rolled out and from the true manner in which it played it look as if it were the best wicket played on during the week. Riches and Mitchell faced Bird and Davies and after Mitchell had played a maiden over from Bird, Riches opened out at Davies. With his score at 4 Riches gave a hard chance low down in the slips to Wodehouse, but after this he let off his freely and seemed quite set.

Davies had 4 slips and a third man but Riches left his off balls alone and made a couple of nice fours to leg. After 15 minutes' play 20 was hoisted and in the next over Mitchell was caught out behind the wicket off Davies. This is the fourth successive time he has been held by the wicket keeper. Clifford now came in and began very confidently helping to take the score to 50 but he was well caught in the slips by the Hongkong Captain when he had made 17. Leach now came in and hit a full toss from Davies to the rails, and played the next ball nicely along the ground for a similar amount. Wodehouse and Reed now took charge of the attack, but Leach seemed quite at home to both bowlers and continued to punish the bowling badly.

Riches was nicely caught in the long field by Davies and Claxton came in. He was clean bowled by Reed, with a Yorker on the off stump, for 0, and was followed by Holmes-Brown. These two batsmen took the score from 88 to 226 and gave a delightful exhibition of free hitting. The bowling was again changed Sayer and Edwards coming on but the batsmen seemed to find both very easy to score from and Leach hit Edwards for 4 successive fours. Davies and Bird came on again with no better result and the double century went up with Leach over 80 and Brown about 50.

Hancock now decided to try his hand at bowling himself and in his first over he got the Shanghai batsman caught well behind the wicket by Davies for a very fine compiled 94. He hit 16 fours in his contribution and none of the bowling seemed to worry him. Morris joined Holmes-Brown who was nicely held at cover after only 4 more runs had been scored. Brown had 10 fours in his score of 64 and played very attractive cricket for his runs. Martin was next in and with only one run added Morris was clean bowled by Davies. Stafford, a Straits player who has not previously been seen now joined Martin and began very well, making some pretty strokes from Davies.

Martin did not last long, touching one of Davies' off-balls into Wodehouse's hands and joining Stafford. The Shanghai reserve played out time and the score stood at 242 for 8 wickets when stumps were drawn. The match will be continued to-day until 3.30 p.m. when Interport Tennis will be played on courts laid out in front of the stands.

COMMENTS BY "THROWN OUT."

What a difference there was in the Shanghai team when they were in a winning position!

Their bowling which seemed mediocre against Hongkong was splendid against Singapore. Leach bowled with his head and especially in the second innings, he had the batsmen in a very tight corner. Allison sent them down faster than on the previous occasion and there was no sign of those test balls that Pearce made so many runs from. Wainwright used his bowling beautifully and was himself very successful in the first innings and though he got no wickets in the second venture no one could hit him. It was strange to see a batsman of the class of Claxton, Holmes-Brown and Riches dismissed so easily and must have made the Hongkong bowlers think. The Shanghai fielding on Saturday both before and after tiffin was first class, and the only chance given was when Ollerdesen just failed to get a high one from Griffin. It was a difficult catch however and he had to cover a lot of ground to get below it. Griffin deserves a great deal of praise for the manner in which he batted before tiffin. He tried to stop the rot and yet to hit the bowlers and the value of his 22 runs was much greater than it appears numerically. Claxton again disappointed. The Hongkong public know this batsman and have seen him in an aggressive mood and a genuine sigh of disappointment went up in both of the innings when he got out. The Straits were unfortunate to have their heavy hitter Rhodes on the sick list, and he was just the man who with Griffin might have put a better face on matters, though he could not hope to have altered the result. Shanghai have the satisfaction of having gained the biggest victory and that over the team which beat Hongkong.

The wicket was in better condition than during either of the two other matches and later in the Hongkong versus "The Rest" match the best patch of turf of all seemed to have been found. Shanghai were fortunate to win the toss and it was as good as 100 runs to them.

In this connection Hancock has been particularly unfortunate losing the toss in both interport games, and then also in "The Rest" match on Saturday afternoon.

In the "Rest" match we had a splendid exhibition of batting by Leach of Shanghai and Holmes-Brown of Singapore. They played pretty cricket and made the Hongkong attack look very poor stuff indeed. The home side's fielding was not particularly good and a number of catches were dropped. Some of the sides seemed to be suffering from a surfeit of cricket.

I am sorry Hennessy is not playing as I would have liked to see the home batsmen given another chance against him; but Leach will find an opportunity to repeat his Singapore performance, and I shall be interested to find out if Grimshaw is as good as he used to be.

HONGKONG v. THE REST.

Five minutes sufficed to finish off the Visitors' innings. Bird getting Grimshaw stumped and Allison caught in the slips off successive balls the 2nd and 3rd sent down. The score was increased by only 2 runs and the whole side was out for 244. T. E. Pearce and A. E. Wood opened Hongkong's innings and after Pearce had made a pretty four off Leach's second ball, and two maidens over had been played Wood was clean bowled by the Shanghai fast bowler with the score at 4. Major Edwards who came in next only lasted 8 minutes and after hitting Leach to the boundary he got his leg in front of a straight ball from the same bowler. Wodehouse joined Pearce and a stand was made bringing 40 up on the telegraph.

Holmes-Brown went on for Leach and then Clifford for Allison the last named getting Wodehouse stumped with the score at 44.

Hancock now joined Pearce and the two batsmen began to make runs quickly. Hancock left Allison's off balls alone but hit the straight ones very hard getting him out of the ground for 6 on one occasion.

The score mounted rapidly and by noon 100 was up on the board. Hancock was caught with the score at 148 after helping to put on 104 in three quarters of an hour and himself having contributed 69 of that total.

Davies joined Pearce and after lifting Morris out of the ground into the Supreme Court was clean bowled by Riches. Sayer now partnered Pearce and steady cricket took the score to 191 when the bell rang for tiffin. Half an hour or so after tiffin ought to be sufficient to enable Hongkong to knock off the runs and win this match.

FOOTBALL A CRIME.

TURKISH COMEDY.

It has always been a difficult matter to be a sportsman in Turkey. One Turk, Rehad Bey, has just tried it with a result, weird enough to serve as the basis for a detective story.

It appears that this young Turk had organised a football team among his friends, together with some Greeks and Armenians, and began practising.

Shortly after, in the middle of the night, police came to his house and carried him off to Scutari. There he was submitted to a long examination as to the club, and the game of football. The authorities were convinced that they had found a great plot, and that the club must be a secret society. A special messenger was sent for the ball, and that was duly examined and found to be an infernal machine. The rules of the game were considered to be another piece of damning evidence, and still worse were the sweaters and colours of the club.

After long deliberation the culprit was sent to the higher police authorities in Stambul, who went through a second long examination and came to the conclusion that the empire had been saved from disintegration by the early discovery of a great plot.

They dispatched the whole matter to be inquired into at the Sultan's palace, at Yildiz, and a special commission took it in hand.

After much careful thought and examination of the evidence of the crime, it was decided that there might be nothing in it, but that it must not be committed again.

"Ambrose" 2 Police 0 Club 1 "Tamar" 0
R.G.A. 2 Kowloon 1

The "Ambrose" seem to be unfortunate in losing some of their players each match, but despite the fact they had to play without Downs, the Navy men proved too strong for their opponents, the Police, on Saturday, thus getting their first two points in the league. Savage, who had not turned out lately for the "Ambrose" played against the Police and was responsible for the second goal. Miles, the Navy centre-forward, scoring the first.

Mr. Thornton was referee.

H. K. CLUB v. "TAMAR"

The Club were visitors on the Navy ground for this match, and for some time at the start of the game did not feel settled, not having played on a smaller ground than theirs for some time. The "Tamar," led by Graydon were the first to attack, but the Club defence were ready for them, and feeding their forwards well, soon had the "Tamar" defence working. Play was very fast and evenly matched, the Club attacks being spoiled several times by offside on the part of their left wing Riss. Just before half-time the Club scored, Rodger being responsible.

In the second half the "Tamar" played very hard to equalize and they certainly came to doing it several times, but the Club defence, and Rodger their goalie, were in great form and right up to the final whistle managed to keep the "Tamar" from scoring, thus winning by the only goal scored.

The referee was Mr. Hollands.

R.G.A. v. KOWLOON.

This match was to have been played on the St. Joseph ground, but the Club ground being vacant, the game was transferred.

Mr. Jones was referee. The Gunners right through the game played with more combination than their opponents, who seemed to be rather out of form. From the kick off the R.G.A. started attacking, and nearly scored. The Kowloon forwards played without combining well, but they had several easy openings which should have been taken advantage of. Their shooting was poor. There was no score in the first half, but the Gunners, after keeping Kowloon on the defensive for some time scored, McHugh working through and registering. This livened Kowloon up somewhat and several times they missed badly in front of goal. Then the Kowloon right back mis-kicked and McHugh rushing past scored the Gunners' second goal. Play was mostly in the R.G.A. half after this, the Kowloon forwards trying hard to score, the whistle going with the score 2-1 in favour of the R.G.A. Beesley scoring for Kowloon from a penalty.

SECOND DIVISION.

Indians 5 Punjabis 0
St. Joseph's 2 Oilers 0
R.G.A. 3 United 0
Club 1 S. China 0
Kowloon 0 Staffs 0

INDIANS v. PUNJABIS.

These two Indian teams met at the Sookumpoo Valley, and the Indians were too good for the Punjabis, who, however, put up a good fight, going down 5-0 to a far stronger team. Mr. Robson refereed.

ST. JOSEPH'S v. OILERS.

This match was played on the St. Joseph Ground, and St. Joseph's won by two goals to nil, playing much better football than their opponents, who did not seem to display the same form that they have shown in the last few matches.

The referee was Mr. Pragnall.

R.G.A. v. UNITED.

The United suffered another reverse on Saturday. Playing against the R.G.A. second string at the Navy A Ground on Saturday, they found the Gunners too heavy and superior in shooting, and went down 3-0. McGee doing the hat trick. Mr. Jones was in charge.

CLUB RES. v. S. CHINA.

The Club second string are improving with each match they play, their combination and general play being quite good, considering the way they started.

Playing against a well balanced team like the S. China Res., they were perhaps rather lucky to win by the single goal, as in first half the Chinese missed some easy chances, but in the second half the Club forwards had the ball constantly up in Chinese territory, trying hard for a second goal. Boysen scored for the Club.

Mr. Cheesley was the referee. The match was played on the Club ground.

KOWLOON v. STAFFS.

This match was fought out on the Navy ground and both sides were very easily matched, each defence being too good for the opposing forwards. The game ended in a goalless draw, the score indicating the standard of play.

The referee was Mr. Thornton.

GOLF.*THE CHAMPIONSHIP.*SEMI-FINAL TIES.*DESCRIBED BY "JIGGER."

The weather was ideal for golf when the semi-final rounds of the Championship were played on Sunday at Fanling. The course was hard as is usual at this time of the year and the greens were very fast, but remarkably true. Putting at this time of the year in Hongkong is an art, and many matches are won and lost by faulty play in this department. Of the four players on view on Sunday Morgan impressed me most, and he really threw away his chances of winning, by rank bad putting. His partner on the other hand excelled on the green and with the help of a slice of luck pulled off the game. In the other tie Kraft was his usual self, not brilliant but sure and safe; never off the line and making no risks as with an early lead he did not need to take any. Forrest was off his game and when that is the case, he can play very badly. During last week he went round in 78; 39 out and home and it was thought that he would see the final but from an occasional good shot through the green he seldom did anything and he only succeeded in winning one hole the second and halving 3 in the thirteen played.

Next Sunday the final of 36 holes 18 before and after tees, will be played between Wodehouse and Kraft and it ought to be a very good, close game, with the odds slightly in favour of the younger man.

THE PLAY.

R. L. D. WODEHOUSE v. B. D. C. MORGAN.

Wodehouse started off from the first tie and got a beautiful low carrying shot. His opponent replied with an average tie-shot and then played a pretty mashie which ran over the left hand edge of the green. Wodehouse had a poor second but got well on with his third. Morgan chipped over the green with his third and then after putting too strongly missed an easy 2 foot putt for a half in 5. At the second hole Wodehouse's drive was very short and in trying to carry the bunker with his brassie he got in and took 2 to get out. Morgan had a lovely drive, carried the bunker nicely with his cleek and found himself pin high but to the right of the green. He chipped on too strongly but laid his approach putt dead winning the hole in 5 to his opponents 6. At the short third both played very careful tee shots. Morgan was just on the near corner of the green and Wodehouse who tried to kick off the side of the hill stopped in the long grass on the edge of the green. Wodehouse duffed his second and Morgan had a very poor approach putt. Morgan lipped the hole for a 3 and with his opponent taking two putts a half in 4 was the result.

At the fourth Wodehouse duffed his drive the ball only travelling about 25 yards. He had a fair second and then ran on to the green nicely with his 4th being about 3 feet from the hole. Morgan had a pretty drive and was just short with a nice mashie shot. He laid his third within four feet of the pin and the hole was morally his.

It ought to have been an easy putt for the hole; but not only did he miss it and run over, but he failed to get back for a half and threw away the hole in 6-5. This lapse seemed to worry Morgan at the next hole, where after a good drive he played his second to the left of the green and was very short with his approach. Wodehouse on the other hand played this hole perfectly. A pretty drive, a nice second with his jigger just on, a good approach putt and no mistake about the 3 foot putt necessary to give him a 4 to Morgan's 5. He was now 2 up and going well. At the long sixth Wodehouse met with a chapter of accidents. He hooked his drive into the rough, got well out but found the rough on the other side of the fairway just below the Rest House, and his 3rd was still in the rough.

Morgan has a nice tee-shot but ball kicked up above the topmost terrace and he had to play his second standing well below the ball. He got it nicely away however with his cleek and was almost on in 2. A nice run up and a good putt almost gave him a 4, in fact he lipped the hole; but a 5 was good enough to give him the hole, making Wodehouse 1 up.

At "the Bog" the pin was on the lower green and Wodehouse got nicely on. Morgan however was on the slope up to the upper green and played his second too strongly. Good putting gave Wodehouse the hole in 3-4 and made him again 2 up.

To ensure keeping straight at the 5th, Wodehouse took a driving iron off the tee and got a wonderful long ball. Morgan who is off his drive and who had been using a brassie on the tee, got too much underneath the ball and sent it into the rough to the left. With his second he got into the valley between the 5th and 6th fairways but lying well was able to pitch nicely on. Wodehouse ran up with an iron and had hard lines in just over-running the green. He was too strong in getting out, and putted short. Morgan lipped the hole with a 12 foot putt and a half in 5 was the result.

UNKNOWN WARRIOR.

London, November 11th. (12.10 p.m.)

The coffin of Britain's unknown warrior was draped with an historic Union Jack from 1793, surrounded with a sword presented by the King and the Imperial Guard, and a card attached which is inscribed "In memory of those who left Britain in 1793."

The funeral procession to Westminster Abbey was then begun, headed by the Imperial Guard, followed by the British Army, the French Army, and the British Navy. The coffin was carried by the Imperial Guard, and the British Army, the French Army, and the British Navy. The coffin was carried by the Imperial Guard, and the British Army, the French Army, and the British Navy.

As the impressive procession wound its way through the streets to the magnificent dome of the Abbey, every voice was hushed and heads were respectfully bowed.

In the presence of the royal princes, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord Mayor, and the Lord Chamberlain, the coffin was placed in the hearse, and the funeral procession continued to Westminster Abbey.

At the church door, the coffin was met by the Lord Mayor, the Lord Chamberlain, and the Lord Bishop of London. The coffin was then carried into the church, and the funeral service was conducted by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

MARSHAL FOCH'S TRIBUTE.

Paris, November 11th.

A Havas message describing the ceremony on the occasion of the placing of the coffin of Britain's unknown warrior on the British destroyer Ferdus at Boulogne, says: Marshal Foch, in a ringing speech, bade the unknown British hero farewell in the name of France, stating that the exploits of the war stand unparalleled in world history. The blood spilled together on so many battlefields, sealed for ever friendship between the British and the French armies, and making the grave of the unknown warrior a monument to the friendship between the two nations.

General Macdonald, in reply, expressed King George and the British Government's thanks for the honours paid to the British warrior, concluding that the grave will stand in Westminster Abbey as a token of the friendship between the two nations.

London, November 11th.

The wonderful scenes which characterized yesterday's great pilgrimage to the Abbey and the Cenotaph are being re-enacted today. There was a constant stream of visitors last night as the Abbey which was only closed at 11 o'clock and reopened at 7.30 in the morning, instead of 10 o'clock, owing to the crowds which had already gathered to pay their tribute of respect.

Similarly, as the Cenotaph, the people began to arrive in Whitehall at a very early hour in the morning, and there soon developed an immense queue. The great means of wreaths and crosses at the foot of the Cenotaph steadily growing.

A striking feature was a mass of flowers in small bunches, deposited by hundreds of the working-classes. The Duke of York in the afternoon unveiled the memorial outside the Royal Exchange to the London troops who fell in the war.

London, November 11th.

A Havas message says: Parisians are preparing with patriotic enthusiasm for tomorrow's celebration of the joint anniversary of the victory of 1919 and of the establishment of the Republic.

Paris, November 11th.

Simultaneously with the ceremony in London, all Paris assembled in the vicinity of the Arc de Triomphe to do honour with the French army and navy to the hero of France who fell in battle in the person of the unknown soldier selected from thousands who gave up their lives in the defence of Verdun.

Committed with the celebration of Armistice Day, the French united the occasion to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the Third Republic in connection with which the Arc de Triomphe, the patriot who incarnated the nation's will of France after the disaster of 1870, was covered by the last resting place in the Pantheon.

The procession was headed by a mass of colour formed by regimental flags. Representatives of all branches of the army followed a tattered flag carried in the battle of the Marne and a faded and ragged standard of 1870. Then a gilded car bore the Arc de Triomphe, escorted by members of the Government, after which a gun-carriage with a couple of cannons containing the remains of the unknown soldier surrounded by a group of non-commissioned officers.

The body of the unknown soldier will be subsequently buried beneath the Arc de Triomphe while the heart of Gambetta will be transferred to the Pantheon.

Later.

A Havas message says:—

Today's national celebration has as its object the double commemoration of the victory of 1919 and the establishment of the Republic fifty years ago. The veterans of the victory, those thousands who fell unknown, were to be honoured in the person of the unknown French soldier, and the artisans and economic reconstruction of France were to be honoured in the person of the great patriot and statesman, Leon Gambetta, whose insuperable energy revived France after the war of 1871. Thus, almost simultaneously the body of the unidentified French soldier arrived in Paris. The Arc de Triomphe, that unique monument to the First Napoleon and his soldiers, was eventually selected as the most fitting grave. There, he will lie alone under the stupendous arch, beneath a plain slab inscribed with these simple words: "To the Soldier who was the final victory."

As to Gambetta, his heart only was brought to Paris. The Pantheon, that French Westminster, is to receive it. The Parisian population, ever patriotic and spirited, deemed it an honour to celebrate in a befitting manner such memories. The public buildings, many private residences and offices were decorated with flags and bunting.

Enormous crowds assembled from dawn and filled the streets. M. Millerand, surrounded by Cabinet Ministers, Field Marshals, Senators, and Deputies, awaited the procession on the steps of the Pantheon where an impressive ceremony took place in the presence of French and foreign notabilities and many delegations.

REAL TOOTH DANGER LIES UNDER THE GUMS.

Under the gums is the important foundation—the bony root socket which holds the teeth in place.

Healthy gums guard and preserve this foundation of your teeth. Soft, bleeding, tender or receding gums allow Pyorrhea infection to creep beneath them. If unchecked, the germs spread to the bony root sockets, weaken and destroy them.

Then your teeth become loose and eventually fall out, or must be extracted—because Pyorrhea has eaten away their supporting foundation. You may have kept the visible surface of the teeth white and glistening by daily brushing—you may have had all cavities skillfully filled—but all that care has gone for naught because you neglected your gums.

Watch your gums if you want to save your teeth.

Pyorrhoea Powder was compounded for the specific purpose of maintaining and restoring gum health. In addition to its ingredients which keep the teeth white and clean, it is medicated with Dentinol, a germicidal and healing agent widely used by the dental profession in the treatment of Pyorrhoea at the dentist's chair.

Pyorrhoea Powder tones up the gums, stimulates their blood circulation, maintains hardness and firmness, thereby increasing the power to resist Pyorrhoea infection. Its effectiveness for this purpose has been conclusively proved by thorough tests in clinics devoted exclusively to Pyorrhoea study and research. That is why dentists everywhere recommend it.

GOLF.

Both players got lovely tee shots at the ninth and were lying side by side. Morgan had a raking cleek shot for his second and pitched nicely on with his mashie. His opponent topped his second with his brassie but the lie of the land helped him and he ran well down the hill.

With a good mashie he was also on but very short. Morgan laid his approach putt dead and got a 5 but Wodehouse was short twice with his putts and took 6, thus finishing the outward half 1 up. Both players were out in 44 which represents good steady golf. Morgan with a little more care on the greens ought to have had a 40 at most.

At the 10th both got well over the saddle and in a good line. Morgan took too much ground with his brassie and did not travel far. A good third put him above the green to the left and a bad lie. He got out very well and ought to have had a 5 but his putt was a few inches short. Wodehouse topped his second with his brassie but the ball ran a long way. He ran up and was short but laid his 4th dead to win the hole in 6-6.

At the 11th Wodehouse played dog-leg fashion while Morgan tried to carry the hollow. Morgan was just on the edge of the fairway and had a bad stance. He got it away splendidly however and was well on in 3 about a yard from the pin and what looked like a sure 4.

Wodehouse had a very poor second and an equally poor third but the ball was travelling in the right direction all the time and he was playing his 4th from 25 yards off the green. He ran it up nicely and the ball ran nicely round the hole and dropped in for a 4. This seemed to unnerve Morgan who missed his putt for a half and Wodehouse was now 3 up.

At the 12th Morgan topped his mashie and landed just to the left of the green while Morgan with his jigger was well on about 8 yards from the pin.

Wodehouse chipped on nicely about 4 feet from the pin and Morgan laid his putt dead. Wodehouse however was an inch short with his putt and Morgan won the hole in 3-4.

At the 13th Morgan had a long raking drive which was just off the fairway to the left. The ball was lying close to the bank and for a right hander was a very difficult shot to play. For the second time he got splendidly out of a difficult stance and played his third up to the bank at the back of the green. Wodehouse pulled his drive badly and had the misfortune to hit a small tree with his second. He had a good 3rd and was on in 4 but Morgan surprised himself by sinking a 15 foot putt and getting a nice 4.

Morgan had now struck a good patch and was playing with great confidence. His tee shot at the 14th was the best effort of the match and was on the green within 6 yards of the pin. Wodehouse was short of the green and on the steepest part of the slope to the left of the green. His second was a poor effort both in direction and strength and he just managed a 4. Morgan putted rather strongly, being evidently determined to give the hole a chance to hold him for a 2. He got back nicely to win the hole in 3-4 and thus made the match all square with 4 holes to play.

Morgan topped his drive and was very lucky to miss hitting a ridge about 25 yards from the tee. His cleek again came to the rescue and with a nice chip shot he was well on in 3. Wodehouse had a long low drive and with his driving from was on the edge of the green in 2. He ran up and was well on a foot from the hole in 3. Morgan was on the other side of the hole with a 12 foot putt for a 4. He gave the hole every chance and ran over a few inches laying Wodehouse a half-stymie.

The slope of the green helped Wodehouse and he screwed nicely round his opponent's half to win the hole in 4-5 and make him one up and 3 to play.

Wodehouse took his driving from again at the 16th and was 20 yards short with his tee shot.

Morgan with his brassie was a little to the right of the green in the rough. Under ordinary circumstances a half played, as his was along the brassie side should kick down and be held by a green but his ball kicked very high and gave him a heavy lie below in the rough. He completely duffed his mashie shot and then got badly on with his 3rd the hole costing him 5.

Wodehouse ran up nicely but missed an easy putt for a 3, winning however in 4-5. Wodehouse was now 2 up.

Wodehouse got into serious trouble at the 17th pulling his drive into the rough and taking two to get out. Morgan had a lovely drive and then seeing his opponent's plight, played safe being content to try for the green with his third. He was strong with

TENANTS' RIGHTS.

MORE TROUBLE AT QUEEN'S GARDENS.

Whether a landlord has the right to maintain a tenant must take another person into his room, or give up the room, is a point suggested by the experience of a resident in one of Hongkong's boarding establishments.

The establishment in question is the Manpeller, No. 2, Queen's Gardens, Peak Road, under the management of Mr. S. D. Hickie, in the absence of Mrs. Hickie. The tenant has lived in the place for about seven years. In that period the rate has been largely increased; nevertheless she has paid the additional sums asked without complaint. Until about a year ago she occupied the room with her mother. On the death of her mother, she remained the room, paying $130 a month for room and meals.

The first intimation she received that the management desired her to take someone else into the room came in a letter from Mr. Hickie dated September 16 last. Following is an extract:

"I was wondering if you had a friend whom you would care to have live with you. My wife mentioned it before she went away. It would be company for you and make things a little cheaper."

Because of the tone of the letter, the tenant accepted the remark about taking another person into the room as a joking suggestion, and beyond agreeing that it might be cheaper, made no reply or reference to the subject.

She discovered that it was intended seriously when she received a second letter, dated October 27, in which Mr. Hickie wrote:

"Have you got a friend yet to join you in your room as mentioned in my letter of two months ago? An advert. would be the best thing if not."

To this the tenant wrote an answer that she had no friend to join her, and no intention of advertising for a stranger.

Then came this letter from Mr. Hickie, dated October 30:

"Then in reply to yours of 28th inst. as you don't care to study our interests I don't see that we should study you any longer and must ask you to vacate your room at the end of next month."

"I have already let it to another family. I am sorry I misunderstood your attitude and I don't think you have treated us quite fairly."

She made no reply to this letter. Presently she received another, dated November 1:

"I have put off letting your room for certain until you tell me you are fixed up elsewhere as it may not be easy for you to find a place to suit you at a month's notice and I do not wish to put you to any inconvenience."

In conversation with a representative of the China Mail the tenant expressed herself as surprised that Mr. Hickie had told her bluntly to give up the room and move without giving her a chance to pay more, had she been willing to do so. "Fortunately," she added, "I have found another place and I am leaving at the end of the month."

his mashie but got down in two putts to win the hole in 5-7. The match had now gone to the last hole and Wodehouse was dorny.

A large crowd had gathered round the home green to see the finish. After both men had made good straight drives Morgan played a pretty mashie shot on to the green while Wodehouse was just on at the far away corner. His approach putt was too strong and it was too much to expect him to get back for a 4. Morgan's approach putt was a beauty and looked as if it were going in. It was 2 feet off the pin however and almost stymied Wodehouse, after he had played 4 and was short.

Wodehouse sank his putt nicely for a 5 and everyone expected Morgan to knock in his ball without any trouble and take the match to the 19th hole.

He took the putt very carefully only half hit the ball and it travelled in a very bad line to the right of the hole and gave him a half in 5, costing him the match. Wodehouse thus won on the home green by 1 up.

DETAILED SCORES.

Wodehouse out 5, 6, 4, 5, 4, 6, 3, 5, 4-4; home 5, 4, 4, 5, 4, 4, 7, 5-42; making a total of 86.

Morgan out 6, 5, 4, 6, 5, 5, 4, 5, 5-44; home 6, 5, 3, 4, 3, 5, 5, 5-41; making a total of 85.

T. S. FORREST v. W. D. KRAFT.

Forrest put his second shot at the first hole into the pot bunker to left of the fairway and it cost him the hole. He played a beautiful second at the next hole however and won it with a perfect 4. After this however he seemed to go to pieces. He lost the short third and the next hole was 2 down at the 5th. The long sixth was halved but Kraft with a nice tee shot at "the Bog" increased his lead to 3 up. The 8th was halved and Kraft won the 9th being thus 4 up at the turn.

Kraft was playing fine steady golf and was out in 42. Forrest recovered at the 10th but could only manage to get a half and then he went to pieces again and lost the next three holes the 11th, 12th, and 13th. The match thus finished on the 13th green with Kraft 7 up and 5 to play.
